Delay Decision on New Menlo Postoffice

US Starts Million-Dollar Building Here

New Geological Survey Unit Going Up Facing Middlefield

Construction was already underway this week on a $1,048,900 unit of the U.S. Geological Survey's western headquarters here. Contract for the 85,530 building was awarded Tuesday, and was announced at that time by Congressman J. Arthur Younger in Washington.

* * *

The building, occupancy of which is expected by next May, will ultimately house some 300 workers in the USGS' topographic mapping division. The division is currently headquartered in Sacramento.

Construction is underway on a two-acre parcel facing Middlefield road, which was recently awarded to the USGS out of property declared surplus by the General Services Administration.

Successful bidder for the job was Louis C. Dunn, Inc., of San Francisco.

The structure will be two stories in height, and the contract includes parking areas and access roadways, Congressman Younger's announcement said.

Pre-stressed reinforced concrete and the popular "lift slab" or "tilt up" construction.

City Manager John R. Johnson said the building has already been assigned a street number: it will be known at 345 Middlefield road.

The USGS office here, which presently has headquarters facing Homewood place in the Linfield Oaks professional - administrative zone, has as its job the cataloging and inventorying of mineral resources in the 11 western states, Alaska, and Hawaii.

The mapping division supplements this with topographical data.

SOON TO RISE—Above is an architect's sketch of the $1,048,900, 85,000-square-foot topographical mapping headquarters of the U.S. Geological Survey, contract for which was let by the federal government this week. The structure, to face Middlefield road a short distance south of the entrance to Stanford Village, is already under construction.

From City:

NO PERMIT

The biggest building project started in Menlo Park this year probably will be constructed without a building permit.

City Building Inspector James D. Steiger said this week that the new U.S. Geological Survey building is a government building on government land, not on the tax rolls and not subject to local regulations.

However, he said, the city will issue a building permit if either he or his assistant is called on to make inspections.

It's expected, however, that inspections will be made under federal authority.

Previous units of the USGS headquarters here are built on private land, and are leased to the government. Thus, permits were issued for both of them.

All Bids May Be Rejected

Anticipated rapid growth of subdivisions west of Menlo Park has prompted the U.S. postoffice department to undertake a new survey of needed facilities in this area. As a result, no action will be taken on recently submitted bids for a new postoffice here for at least 60 days.

Robert Fahs, assistant to the regional operations director, reported yesterday that the bids, submitted June 16, may be rejected if the survey shows the 14,000-square-foot postoffice will be inadequate.

"We've had experience with construction projects in California before," he told the Recorder. "In some cases, in the Los Angeles area, we've authorized the start of construction of buildings which were inadequate by the time they were completed."

Fahs said he didn't know whether workers were "on the ground" yet or not. He said they are going to try to determine how big the population of the Sharon estate lands and the Stanford lands west of the city ultimately will be.

The Sharon estate, composed of 574 acres, will ultimately have about 1500 homes in it; Stanford has more than 900 acres of developable land which it is expected will be annexed to Menlo Park and this is expected to add homes for 2500 more families.

Both the Stanford lands in San Mateo county, and the Sharon estate, are already within the Menlo Park postoffice's distribution area.

Terms under which the postoffice sought bids before June 16 called for a 14,000 square foot building, plus 8000 square feet for turning and parking of government vehicles.

The postoffice department has not revealed the number of bids received. But local real estate operations observers have speculated that not more than four or five locations which could accommodate such a plant were available in downtown Menlo Park.

Planners Want To Hear More About Museum

Menlo Park city planners this week indicated they want to hear more about a proposed childrens' "science and history museum," before deciding whether a use permit should be required for its operation, or not.

The facility would be operated at 1055 Oakland avenue; Pierre Jones would be the "curator."

The planning commission doesn't want to get into the business of regulating meeting places for youth groups, Chairman Charles Anderson pointed out. It could lead to too many complications, such as having to oversee meeting places of the city's multifarious Cub Scout units.

But, he added, the museum idea as orginally presented to the planners sounded pretty much like a commercial venture and as such would require a use permit.

Jones' museum would be situated in an existing 16-by-36 foot building on property owned by his father, Howard Jones, a contractor. The elder Jones said that, according to the family's plans, neighborhood children would be welcome, and would be aided in making collections of a scientific nature, in reading, and so forth.

The elder Jones explained that the facility would be designed for use by children between ages of 8 and 13 years; attendance would be on a voluntary basis and donations would be accepted although no dues would be charged.

He produced a petition signed by 52 neighbors, all of whom agreed they had no objection to such an operation.

A letter submitted to the planning commission, however, couched things in slightly different terms. It called Howard Jones the "director" of the museum, his wife the "assistant director," and the younger Jones the "curator."

'EDUCATIONAL'

The letter said the museum would be "an educational endeavor" and would have a "laboratory" as well as a library.

Mayor William R. Lawson said he wasn't sure whether or not the planners "had the right to regulate a gathering of children in a home." He said he didn't think a permit was necessary.

But calling attention to the official sounding titles and variety of descriptions of the museum which they'd heard, the planners referred the matter to City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr. for further study.

City Council Upsets Rezoning Proposal

The Menlo Park City Council Tuesday rejected a request for rezoning ten and one-half lots in Belle Haven from commercial to apartment use, after a group of 20 citizens turned up to protest the proposal.

The lots under question are located on Van Buren avenue, Market place and Alpine avenue. The planning commission had earlier recommended approval of the rezoning request.

Fred Gutt, of Bay City Builders, Inc., Menlo Park, and Edwards Construction Co. of Redwood City, applicants for the rezoning, say that there is a tremendous need for low cost housing in the area .

Action was taken by the planning commission several weeks ago to rezone four lots on Alpine and Van Buren avenues, since the property is contiguous to that owned by Gutt and the construction company.

The greatest objection to rezoning the lots and thereby providing for construction of approximately 30 apartment units in the area was overcrowding, especially in the schools.

The Belle Haven Improvement Association, prime opponents of the rezoning, received support from the Ravenswood School District for keeping the property commercial. A letter from Stanley O. Schnepple, superintendent of the Ravenswood School District, stated that the Belle Haven School now handles 860 children, and that if present trends in enrollment continue the school may soon be unable to handle them all. "There seems to be a high child-to-house ratio in relation to school enrollment," Schnepple stated.

Gutt said most of the apartment dwellers are young people with "one or two small children. When they become school age, the parents usually buy a home." He said that out of 97 units already built, 89 are occupied. And out of 89 only 20 children are of school age. He argued that the land is not desirable for commercial use and probably will never be developed.

Gutt said taxes on the property are far more, in a number of school children, property value ratio, than on single family dwellings.

Dorothy Curtis, 1250 Carlton avenue, presently working with the Ravenswood PTA in taking a census of all children under the age of thirteen in the area for use by the school district, said, "There are quite a few young children in that area, however a high percentage of the people are transients or in some branch of the armed services, and will not buy a home when their children reach school age."

Councilman Ira Bonde said the area started developing residentially shortly after World War II, then the master plan came along. "At that time, it was felt there was some need for a commercial area in Belle Haven besides Willow road," he said. He said just because the land is lying idle does not necessarily mean that the property is zoned wrong. "Ultimate potential may still be in the area for development commercially," he said.

Councilman Michael Belangie said he was concerned with adding to the already high density of the area by allowing additional multiple family residences. "I feel that the area should remain commercial until another study by the planning commission can provide a better solution," he said.

ASK NEW STUDY

Gutt asked the council to refer the rezoning request back to the planning commission for further study rather than kill the petitions at this time. The council refused.

In other action by the council, City Manager John Johnson said he hoped to have a preliminary budget statement ready to present the council at its next meeting.

The city's revenue, Johnson said in presenting a financial statement, is running slightly above the estimate this year. He said taxes were estimated at $204,000, and the city actually got $210,000. Fees, fines and services also are up from a year ago.

Building Surges To New High During June

Sparked by a heavy splurge of apartment house construction, the summer building season surged into being in June with 45 building permits, authorizing a total of $627,300 worth of construction, issued by the City of Menlo Park.

The total was the highest for any month so far this year.

Building Inspector James D. Steiger, in reporting the total, pointed out that nearly two-thirds of it, however, was accounted for by multiple dwellings, the construction of which has ben started.

Seven apartment buildings, with a total of 75 dwelling units and a total valuation of $403,000, made up the biggest category under which permits were issued.

There were only three permits issued for single-family dwellings; these had a total valuation of $87,000.

Largest single construction project started was for a $119,000, 21-unit apartment being built by J. Cyril Johnson at 750 Coleman avenue.

Beauties Dodge Jaycees

Members of the Menlo-Atherton Junior Chamber of Commerce this week cancelled their plans for a "Miss Menlo-Atherton" competition.

Instead, they have decided to seek out a typically pulchritudinous area miss, and persuade her to take the banner of "Miss Menlo-Atherton" and compete in their behalf in the "Miss Fiesta Dream Girl" contention set for July 17 in San Mateo.

The winner of the latter gets to preside over San Mateo County's Fair and Floral Fiesta, and is entered in the State Fair's " Maid of California" contest later.

"We just weren't able to persuade enough girls to join our contest, to make a real event out of it," explains Jaycee beauty contest chairman Ned Pfeiffer, "but we know that the girls of the Menlo-Atherton area are, typically, of contest-winning beauty and talent."

The reticence of the area's girls to put their names on a dotted line which would indicate their willingness to compete went unexplained by the beauty selection chairman.

"Several local girls were willing to join similar contests earlier this year, and it may be that the most enthusiastic competitors are looking toward other things," Pfeiffer speculated.

"It's true that most contests require that a girl not be entered in another beauty contest, when she's competing for one set of prizes.

"Besides that, it's summer time, and many who were here earlier are now away on vacations, or are planning to leave some time between now and the time the county fair will be over."

Recorder Special To Compete in Soapbox Derby

David Fraser, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Fraser of 328 Arbor road, will pilot his "Menlo Park Recorder Special" down a San Francisco hill Saturday, in the annual Soapbox Derby event.

Young Fraser, a carrier boy for the Recorder for the past two years, is taking over for Richard Polese, Recorder entry in the Soapbox event for the past two years. Polese, who piloted his famous Recorder "Polese Car" to victory in two heats before being eliminated last year, is now over age. He's 16.

The disqualified and relatively ancient veteran is coaching his younger replacement. The two are associated as members of Boy Scout 104, in which young Fraser is combination scribe, bugler and treasurer.

Fraser, who starts his high school career in the fall, says his car will be loaded to the regulation 250-pound starting weight. This includes the heft of the driver, as well as the coaster.

The event is to be held at Sunset boulevard and Ulloa street in the metropolis.

Both lads are qualified representatives of the Recorder. Polese who's now the coach, has been watching Troop 104's weather station for the past five years, and faithfully reporting its readings every week.

Fraser, described as an outstanding carrier by Circulation Manager Lou DiMarco, last April served as Boys' Day editor here, too.

No Day Off:

That 'Relatively Quiet' Fourth Still Kept Firemen on the Go

A near drowning, a blaze resulting in $2000 damage and three minor fires claimed the attention of Menlo Park Fire District firemen July 4, while most of the area's residents were basking in the idleness of an extra holiday.

And although conceding that things were "relatively quiet," Fire District Chief George Carter did concede that his department had to confiscate one package of illegal firecrackers. Firemen, too, were joined by Atherton police in trying to find out who started a fire in the Menlo-Atherton High School gym the next day.

The near drowning occurred at 4:13 p.m. at Flood Park pool. Firemen said that Carl Hoch, 9, of San Mateo was apparently pushed off the edge into deep water; he couldn't swim.

His struggles attracted the attention of a nearby adult swimmer who brought him out while pool attendants called the firemen.

Firemen said the lad was breathing normally when they arrived.

Fires attended to included a grass fire at 1720 Hull avenue, caused by unpermitted burning; a rubbish fire at Fletcher drive and Alta Vista avenue in Atherton ,caused by an earlier fire; and a rubbish fire caused by unpermitted burning at 76 Fair Oaks lane.

The blaze which threatened a home under construction was detected at 12:40 a.m. at 399 Fletcher drive. The $40,000 dwelling, is owned by C. W. Strandbel. Firemen were unable to determine the cause.

The next day they were called to a Maywood lane address where children were found playing with firecrackers. The firemen lectured both the youngsters and their parents.

The same day firemen were called to Menlo-Atherton High School, where someone had apparently pushed a firecracker through a ticket window. The pyrotechnic ignited a tumbling mat, doing an estimated $25 damage.

Atherton police are investigating.

The same night they had to put out a grass fire at 1304 Modoc avenue. It was apparently caused by children playing with sparklers.

Paper Gets

DATES MIXED

Typographical errors were responsible for two erroneously-reported dates on Page 1 of last week's Recorder.

The Menlo Park Fire District Firemen's Association's 20th annual ball is to be held Aug. 30, not Aug. 20 as reported.

The Menlo Park-Atherton Junior Chamber of Commerce's selection of a candidate for "Miss Fiesta Dream Girl" was to be July 13, not July 19, as the Recorder said. (Further complicating the picture, the Jaycees this week cancelled the judging altogether.)

The mistakes were blamed on "mechanical difficulties."

"This means," said an editor, "that somebody hit the wrong key."

"And further," explains the mechanical superintendent," "some editor didn't check the proof carefully."

New Congregation:

Woodside-Portola Presbyterians Set July 20 Organization Date

Plans were completed this week for the organization meeting which will see formal establishment of the Woodside-Portola Presbyterian church, July 20, at Portola Valley School.

The program, announced by the Rev. H. G. Vorsheim, organizing pastor, was completed following formal notification that the Presbytery of San Francisco has accepted the new congregation. Reverend Vorsheim has been building the church's charter membership since last November, when church members began holding regular Sunday services.

The 3 p.m. program, besides seeing election of congregation officers, will feature greetings from Woodside Mayor William Lowe; Anthony L. Rose, principal of Portola School; the Rev. George W. King, executive secretary of the Peninsula Council of Churches; Dr. Floyd Barr, interim pastor of the Menlo Park Presbyterian church and Howard Robie, director of new work for the north east area of the Presbyterian church organization.

Besides organization, the meeting will feature baptism of adults and infants.

Special music will be provided; Mrs. Howard V. Hunter, church pianist, will be in charge of this.

Reverend Vorsheim came to this area from San Jose last August and set up an office in Woodside. After purchasing a home at 132 Corte Madera road, he moved his offices there.

Regular Sunday services are held at the school each Sunday at 11 a.m.

Thumbing Up:

UNCANNY TALE

Menlo Park Fire District firemen were called to the William H. Guengerich home at 2261 Glen way last Sunday afternoon where six-months-old Steven Guengerich had somehow managed to get his left thumb caught in a beer can.

A six-months-old's thumb isn't very big, observed the firemen, but neither was the hole in which the thumb was caught.

The smoke-eaters borrowed a regular can opener from Mrs. Guengerich, and cut the top out of the can in order to liberate Steven.

Ask 5-Year Plan For Fire District

Menlo Park Fire District commissioners this week called on Chief George Carter to develop a "five year" plan to govern improvements in the district.

The plan would be aimed at providing more hydrants and equipment, to meet requirements of National Fire Underwriters.

Getting Busier All the Time--New Library Marks First Birthday

CROWDED—Parking lot at Menlo Park library in civic center already shows signs of being used to its capacityl, during rush hours. During the year since the facility, operated as a branch of the county library as well as a city library has been opened, landscaping has matured too, as is evident in early-evening photo above.

Menlo Park's new library will have been open for a year, when Sunday, July 13 rolls around.

It's doing its job.

Circulation of books was up 28 per cent each month between January and April of this year, as compared with the same months last year, according to Librarian Philip Morales; it could grow to a much larger figure, if all the shelves were full and more help was hired.

"We can't make a really fair comparison," comments the librarian, who came to Menlo Park last September. "The library was housed in a much smaller place, before we moved from 631 Menlo avenue."

Morales also pointed out that circulation of books is seasonal, in some cases.

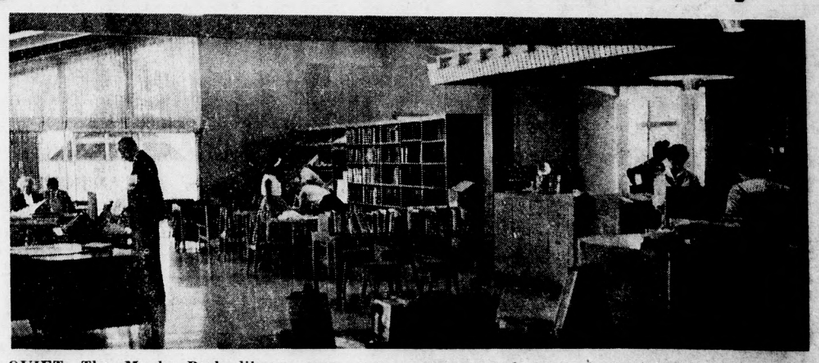

Although there is still space on the shelves for more books, it's getting filled up and the library staff, in order to accommodate the growing traffic, is growing also.

There are now six full-time employees, an increase of one with the opening of the new fiscal year last month, Morales said.

During the first 10 months of the 1956-57 fiscal year, the library—still operated on a cooperative basis by the city and county—circulated 110,197 books.

During the first 10 months of the 1957-58 fiscal year, it circulated 140,188 books, Morales declared.

The building, 6500 square feet in extent, was designed by Kingsford Jones and is supposed to set the pattern for future construction in the civic center area. It has space for 30,000 volumes.

QUIET—The Menlo Park library may seem peaceful, but a lot goes on there. Even during mid-afternoon lulls, such as when the above picture was taken, many residents visit the reading rooms, or browse. A careful count of heads in the above phot shows that there are 10 persons in the view, including the librarian at the desk at right.

TEEN CLUB ORGANIZES

The Hillview Teen Club, for seventh, eighth and ninth graders, will hold its organizational meeting Friday, July 11, from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the Hillview school.

There will be dancing at the first meeting, and summer activities will be discussed. Parties, roller skating and picnics are part of the coming activities scheduled.

Swimming Pool Crosses Lot Line, Confounds the City Planners

A swimming pool built across a property line this week was seen as a threat to property values in the Oakville terrace area by city planners, but they okayed a lot size variation which resulted in one parcel being below the minimum for the area.

The City Council reluctantly upheld the Planning Commission's recommendation Tuesday night.

The pool is situated on properties owned by the Clara Holder estate at Westfield and Windsor drives.

A representative of the American Trust Co., administrators of the estate, explained that one of the two principal heirs wants to get cash for her share of the property, and that the pool lies in the path of an equitable division.

He asked that lot lines be changed, so that the house to be sold would be on an 8000-square-foot parcel of land; the house to which the swimming pool would be assigned would have a 13,000 square foot lot under it.

Neighbors have protested that the smaller lot would be "substandard" in an area where minimum lot size is 10,000 square feet.

Planning commission member Silas Payne asked if it would be possible to leave the lot lines as they are, but convey some sort of limited use of the pool to new owners.

Planning commissioner Art Stadler suggested filling in the pool.

O. A. Lydecker, 1110 Westfield drive, said he had no objection to a change in the lot lines but said he was afraid it might set a precedent.

Building Inspector J. D. Steiger said that at the time the pool was installed, about seven years ago, pools weren't considered structures. That modification in the city's zoning laws came into effect in 1953, he added.

Sheriff Seeks 'Neglect' Suspect

San Mateo County sheriff's officers early this week were still seeking Alfred E. Tittel, 56, for whose arrest on charges of child neglect a warrant has been issued.

Captain Jack O'Brien said the warrant was issued two weeks ago when Tittel was supposed to appear before Superior Court Judge Wayne R. Millington to face the charges. He did not appear.

Juvenile authorities of the county welfare department claim that Tittel's home at 2160 Sterling avenue was being maintained in an unsanitary condition. His children, two teen-age girls, have been taken to the county receiving home.

They say the condition was allowed to remain even after warnings.

Andersons Return From Optics Meet

Dr. W. W. Anderson, Menlo Park optometrist, and Mrs. Anderson returned home this week from Washington, D.C., after attending the 61st annual Congress of the American Optometric Association.

More than a thousand optometrists from the United States and Canada attended the sessions at which they were brought up to date on new developments in contact lenses and vision for school children.

Mrs. Anderson is the second vice-president of the women's auxiliary to the AOA.

Summer School Signup at Hand

All high school students who are legal residents of the Sequoia High School District who are not already registered for the second semester of the district's summer session, which begins July 21, may do so today and tomorrow at Sequoia High School.

The registration, said Dr. Rex Turner, is being conducted at room 29 in the high school.

CARELESS BURNING Monday day afternoon was blamed for a grass fire at 3080 Williams, in East Palo Alto. Firemen said the occupant at that address had ignited a rubbish fire in a barrel, then left the house to go to the store. Embers from the fire in the barrel were blown by the wind and ignited grass.

School Board Okays Rental Of Presbyterian Classrooms

Menlo Park Elementary School District trustees last week agreed to rent two classrooms from the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church for the coming year. Two entire classes of lower-grade students from the Encinal and Laurel school area will be transported to attend them.

The trustees left open the question of where to put excess students from Hillview school. There are about 10 lower grade pupils in classes at Hillview who could be transported to Oak Knoll or Fremont school next year, but the picture may change during the remaining days of the summer, according to School District Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld.

Homfeld, referring to a report on attendance for the year just past, said that he thought some parents could be persuaded to send their children to Fremont school, where classes are small, on a voluntary basis.

On the other hand, he said, some families may move and since such small numbers of students are involved, the entire picture could change.

On the other hand, he pointed out, the district still has kept an option open to rent two additional classrooms from the Presbyterian church. Should the attendance picture change materially, more youngsters could be sent there.

In other actions last week the school trustees:

1. Okayed negotiations with the North American Accident and Life Insurance Co. which is to provide accident insurance for pupils next year at a premium of $1.50. The cost must be borne by parents and participation in the program is voluntary.

2. Okayed sending out for bid for rental of four rooms, for use Sunday mornings, at Encinal school. The rooms are to house classes of a projected Atherton Baptist church congregation.

3. Heard a report on resurfacing of paved areas at the Encinal school grounds. School District Business Manager John C. Richert said he had let the job out for $1680.

Three Enlist For Duty With US Navy

Three area young men enlisted in the United States navy during June, it was announced this week by Chief Boatswain's Mate Alex Nocon, in charge of the San Mateo county recruiting substation in Redwood City.

A fourth youth signed up for a tour of duty with the naval reserve.

Now taking recruit training at San Diego are:

Frank C. Bolefahr, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller of 502 San Benito avenue in Atherton.

James H. Lingefelt, 17, son of William Lingefelt of 2037 Bayshore highway in East Palo Alto and Robert D. Loveland, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Loveland of 131 Abelia way. Loveland was enlisted as an electronics field recruit.

The new naval reserve enlistee is Neil P. Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Decker of 2850 Illinois street. He has been assigned to the naval reserve air station at Alameda, for training before school re-opens in the fall.

The regular navy enlistees are taking nine weeks of basic training. After a two weeks' leave, they will be assigned to a specialists' school for advance training, to an active unit of the fleet or to a naval shore installation.

Administrative Shuffle:

Fire District Names Captain To Fire Prevention Position

Menlo Park Fire District commissioners this week appointed Captain Dan Hollywood as district fire marshal, relieving Deputy Chief Edwin Wickstrom of some of his duties as fire prevention officer.

Wickstrom is also district personnel officer, and the new alignment of officers' duties will allow him more time for work in this department and for attention to administrative detail.

Fireman John Smith, who has been aiding with clerical work in the district's fire prevention office for the past several months, was named district secretary replacing Captain Hollywood.

The commissioners also okayed the appointment of another captain, who is to be selected through an examination, and another lieutenant, who will be named from an existing eligibility list.

Chief Carter explained that Chief Wickstrom's responsibilities have grown with the department, and that either he or Chief Wickstrom is required to be on duty at all times.

Wickstrom, who joined the department in 1936, has been fire marshal and fire prevention officer in the district for the past several years. He became deputy chief in 1955, at the time of the retirement of former District Chief Thomas F. Cuff.

Chief Wickstrom resides, with his wife and four children, at 937 Cotton street.

Captain Hollywood, who resides at 320 Nova lane, has been with the district since 1946. He has been district secretary for the past five years.

Smith, who joined the district in 1954, resides at 2759 Hunter street in East Palo Alto.

Chief Carter commented that the appointment of a new captain and lieutenant is favored by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific, which recommends that there be an officer on duty with each fire company at all times.

A CARELESSLY-TOSSED cigaret last Thursday was blamed for a minor grass fire at Elder street and Santa Cruz avenue, according to Menlo Park Fire District firemen, who extinguished the blaze at 5:46 p.m.

Change Sought In Sign Law

Menlo Park planning commission this week recommended that large industrial buildings be allowemd to have signs in excess of 100 square feet — the present maximum size of signs allowed by the city.

An outgrowth of studies made in Bohannon Industrial Park, the proposed amendment calls for an increase in the maximum size of signs on large buildings in the zone in relation to their frontage of property on which such a building is located.

The maximum size of a sign, under terms of the new law, would be 250 square feet.

School District, Atherton in Court

Legal representatives of the Menlo Park Elementary School District are to appear before Superior Court Judge Wayne Millington at 10 a.m. today, to try to get Atherton dismissed as a party to a condemnation case under which the school district is to seek a 7½-acre school site near Edge road.

The action was postponed from earlier this week, because Atherton Town Attorney Winston C. Black was tied up with a case in San Francisco.

Deputy District Attorney Howard Wawthrop, representing the school district, will argue the legality of an Atherton law which seeks to bar construction of additional schools in the town.

Sheriff Seeking Church Raiders

San Mateo county sheriff's officers this week were seeking clues to the identity of thieves who Monday night ransacked the office of Bethany Lutheran Church in an apparent search for money.

The Rev. Orval Oswald, pastor, said the thieves ripped a safe from the floor and attempted to open it. Papers were scattered.

Sheriff's deputies said it appeared entry was gained through a window of the adjoining church school.

ROADSIDE GRASS along Woodland avenue opposite Manhattan avenue was burned July 3, possibly as the result of a carelessly tossed cigaret, Menlo Park Fire District firemen report.

Everybody Wins: Theft Suspect Learns Locale

Atherton Police Officer Terrence Green caught an auto theft suspect early yesterday morning.

The suspect himself showed a small profit from the transaction with the officer: He at least found out where he was.

The Atherton officer reported that he was patrolling at 3:15 a.m. when he spotted a car being driven south on El Camino Real's northbound lanes. The officer stopped it and found it was driven by Albert Christante, 32, laborer, who resides in San Jose.

Christante, reported officer Green, was intoxicated. He apparently had been drinking but didn't appear to be disabled. Also, officer Green noted that the car was registered to Richard A. Lopez, also of San Jose.

A check with San Jose police revealed that the car was missing: the owner was reporting the theft, in fact, at the very time Officer Green phoned him.

Christante said that he'd been out with friends, got into a fight in a bar, and blacked out.

He said the next thing he knew was when he "came to," driving south on El Camino a few seconds before the red light on Green's patrol car came in.

Donald Eells Gets New Sunset Post

Donald Eells has been appointed assistant business manager and production manager of Sunset magazine, according to an announcement today from Melvin B. Lane, vice-president and business manager of the magazine.

He will return to the Menlo Park headquarters of Sunset to fill his new position. Eells joined the magazine in 1952 as assistant production manager, was promoted to production manager in 1954 and then to manager of printing quality in 1956. As manager of printing quality, he moved to Los Angeles to serve Sunset's interests at Pacific Press there.

In Menlo Park, he will replace Leigh Knoblauch, who has entered into a partnership in a local building contracting firm, Davenport and Knoblauch.

New 9-Acre Area Eyed for Annexing

Preliminaries to annexation of another eight-acre subdivision west of Menlo Park were started Monday night, as representatives of the area's owners asked city planners for an okay of development plans.

The planners gaev their informal now to proposed improvements, including a 50-foot-wide cul-de-sac which would be used as access to the property. They agreed, however, that they should tour the area before taking a final action.

Owned by Mrs. Esther Fraser, the land is to be subdivided into 14 parcels known as Menlo Estates. A portion of the Fraser property was subdivided previously, and approved by the county.

The land is situated off Altschul avenue, adjacent to the Sharon estate.

As We See It:

Menlo Park and Uncle Sam Finally Bury the Hatchet

Maybe, at long last, Menlo Park and Uncle Sam smoke 'um pipe of peace?

A glance at plans for the new million-dollar headquarters unit of the U.S. Geological Survey here seems to indicate an end to the long series of skirmishes between this community and the federal government. During the past five years the alarm has sounded frequently over announced government intentions in regard to use of property in the Stanford Village area.

We have seen city officials traveling to Washington with urgent pleas. We have heard the city council firing resolutions in salvo. We have cheered as our city attorney fired his verbal mortar shells at one federal administration after another, with such resounding phrases as "violation of state's rights at the municipal level!"

It was only a few months ago that the tumult subsided in the most recent battle, when the Army withdrew plans for an armory at the corner of Middlefield road and Ravenswood avenue. And an even more recent skirmish was called off when the USGS announced that buildings on a newly acquired strip of land facing Middlefield would not interfere with eventual extension of Burgess drive according to the city's master plan.

Now, revelation of the design for the new USGS unit, adjacent to the American Insurance Co. building, signals an era of happy cooperation.

Architect's sketches show a structure apparently well suited to the standards of our community's professional-administrative zone. Instead of a blocky, unattractive pile, such as some feared would be foisted upon us, we see a long, low building, faced with brick and glass, a unit that will add to the area's appearance and will nicely complement the new Stanford Research Institute and other privately owned facilities nearby.

The federally owned building won't add one nickel to Menlo Park's tax base, but it should add to the attractiveness and harmony of the valuable area in which it is situated.

Welcome to reservation, Great White Father! Now — maybe — we make-um peace talk.

TELLS US:

All newspapers on the Peninsula got lots of notification about the new $1,048,900 U.S. Geological Survey building contract, which was let Tuesday.

About 10 a.m. Congressman J. Arthur Younger's field office in Burlingame started making a telephone canvass of all the city rooms available, releasing a story that started, "Congressman J. Arthur announced today . . ."

A short while later there appeared from Senator William Knowland's office in Washington a telegram which asseverated,

"Senator William F. Knowland announced today . . ." and so forth.

That Joshua tree on Oak Knoll school playground which is available for transplanting is still available, Menlo Park School District Business Manager John Richert said this week.

He added that he wasn't too worried about it; he's heard that "wheels are turning."

"It's just that a wise individual wants to be sure he can fit a tree like that into his landscape plans, before he moves it," Richert explains.

The license business is booming.

So reports City License Clerk Mrs. Chris Villalobos, who said this week that she's sold about 372 dog licenses in the past few days.

Dogs are supposed to have their new licenses by July 31, and there are usually between 1100 and 1200 dogs licensed in town.

Not only is the dog license business outlook bright for the next few weeks; the business license sales outlook is fine, too. The city's business licenses for the coming fiscal year are due and payable and after Aug. 1, there's a penalty to be paid besides.

Last week's Recorder showed a panoramic picture of the 319th Engineers assembled in Menlo Park.

The soldiers lined up for their picture—according to the memory of some — facing where Johnson street is now.

The eucalyptus trees in the background still stand, on the St. Raymond's parish property facing Arbor road.

The picture printed last week may have seemed a little faint. It was; the original has faded considerably through the years.

Municipal Report:

Police Officers' New Arm Stripes Tell of Training, Experience

When you see a Menlo Park policeman whose uniform sports three small bars on its sleeve, you're meeting an officer who is a journeyman at his trade.

The small bars—they were to become available to officers this week—indicate length of satisfactory service with the department. The officer who wears three of them is a senior patrolman; he's been on the force for at least 42 months and he's had to take examinations every six months during that time, as well as training courses during the intervening months.

An officer whose uniform has one bar on its sleeve has been with the department for a year; you can count on it that he's passed a series of rigid examinations as to character and intelligence. An officer who has two of the sleeve markers on his uniform must have been a policeman for at least 30 months.

And in none of these cases are the badges handed out automatically.

As he prepared to issue the new badges, Police Chief George Potter last week reviewed some of the things an officer has to go through before he's designated a topflight, permanent law enforcement functionary.

First, when he shows up looking for a job—assuming, of course, that there is a vacancy for a new officer—he's carefully checked for qualifications. He has to prove his U.S. citizenship, pass a physical examination which shows he's free from disabling defects, pass a credit check, and an investigation for possible police record.

In the latter, he's investigated by the Menlo Park police, who even check with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to make sure there's no criminal record.

Assuming the prospective recruit gets past these preliminaries, he's given an oral examination before the city personnel board and has to pass a state-prepared written examination.

Assuming he passes all these, he may get the job directly or, if other applicants do better in the examinations than he does, he goes on an eligibilty list.

When he gets on the force he's not done. As a matter of fact, he'll stay on probation for a full year.

Once a year the San Mateo County Police Chief's Association sponsors a recruit training school of two weeks' duration, to which all new officers are sent for instruction in basic subjects.

Meanwhile, he'll take an examination after he's been on the force for six months. He'll take another examination every six months thereafter, getting raises in pay, also, after he's been with the force for 18 month, 30 months and 42 months.

The examinations cover a wide variety of subjects which the officer has to study, on his own time, during the intervening years. The subjects include the following titles:

Laws of arrest, traffic investigation, criminal investigation, patrol duties, department rules and regulations, first aid, judo, report writing, court procedure and giving testimony, court demeanor, fingerprinting, photography and narcotics detection and investigation.

Being a patrolman all one's life doesn't suit the ambitions or talents of some; the police department has some specialists, too.

Inspectors, for instance, are appointed by the chief of police. Lieutenants and sergeants must have at least five years of experience, and must pass an examination in competition with other applicants.

All ranking officers must in addition attend a five-weeks' training course at St. Mary's College, and must take a special criminology course sponsored by the University of California.

The in-service training program described above has been going on for several years, according to Chief Potter.

Only the swatches on the sleeves of police uniforms are new.

But they give visual assurance that the officer with whom you're dealing is an experienced law enforcement specialist who knows his job.

EXPERIENCED OFFICERS—Motorcycle Patrolman John Canali and Inspector Howard Shroeder are shown checking reports and, it can be noted, a new set of badges—three bars, designating Canali as a senior patrolman—are now a part of his uniform. The badges were authorized this week.

County Comment:

Supervisors Find New Way To Get Themselves Under Fire

By FLOYD M. McCUE
Editor and Publisher, Redwood City Star-Advertiser

The board of supervisors—or most of our elected officials for that matter—have found way to get in a pack of trouble.

This time the board has San Carlos residents (or part of them) boiling mad over the approval of a permit for a sports car race track east of Bayshore Freeway in that city.

San Carlos city officials fought the permit bitterly to no avail. The county planning commission had given its approval and the supervisors after several months of bickering added their OK. Supervisors William M. Werder, Martin A. Poss and Edward McDonald gave their approval when the promoters agreed to the clause that would definitely prohibit drag races and hot rods. Chairman Alvin Hatch was absent because of his recent illness.

We hardly agree with San Carlos officials that the races, limited to Saturdays and Sundays, will cause a terrific traffic hazard as claimed. The state says it will complete the off-ramps to the area and this should handle the load. Only a few, we imagine, will wend their way through San Carlos to El Camino Real.

Our failure to go along with the boards action would stem from the change in zoning. A few years ago there was a great move to definitely set up industrial areas that would be kept for industrial development.

Although this parcel may be small, it does take away the land for other purpose. Too, there is little in a race track to entice industries to build plants in the nearby areas. In fact, it may do much to keep these wanted firms out of the area.

This is much the same thinking as that of Supervisor Thomas Callan who wanted to deny the permit. The only thing to do now is to wait and see how things develop. We don't think the daytime racing will disturb many people's sleep, but if the traffic problem becomes bad, San Carlos officials hay have to take some steps of their own to clamp down hard.

The supervisors found themselves in another "pickle" the last week. Having already approved the doubling of their $100,000 contribution to improvement of Middlefield road, they found they could not raise the extra cash because the final budget figure had been set. No money can be transferred from one project to another and there is no extra $100,000 lying around idle.

In order to get around their dilemma and satisfy the Middlefield road property owners, it was decided to use the original allocation to widen the busy street from the Southern Pacific tracks (Dumbarton spur) to the Atherton city line. Funds for the balance of the strip to connect with Redwood City would be included in the budget next year.

We'll agree that the section picked out by the board for improvement is the worst area as far as traffic problems are concerned, but what about the rest of the road, including those areas that go through Redwood City, Atherton, Menlo Park and on to the south.

How are these cities to undertake such a costly improvement program on their own? Property acquisition alone makes the project almost impossible for the cities involved. The speed-up of traffic through the short business center will help considerably to be sure, but it will funnel back into narrow two-lane travel at both ends.

Redwood City officials are studying the costs to make Middlefield a four-lane thoroughfare. Menlo Park has a small start on a similar project at the extreme south end of the county. Atherton, we can well imagine wants to keep the road in its present form to keep the country atmosphere through the beautiful home area.

No move has been made to bring officials of the three cities together to discuss the problem. The planning commissions of the three cities involved might take up the subject of the road's traffic problems and a move for area-wide improvement could start from there.

Some day in the not too distant future, city officials are going to have to start thinking about overpasses for Middlefield just as they now are getting around to for El Camino Real. As the western hill areas develop more and more, the traffic load to and from those homes to the Bayshore Freeway will multiply several fold.

Even the proposed Junipero Serra Freeway will not solve all problems—if they decide on a route to build it. It would be too bad for the beauty of the area, but we may have to come to those unsightly overhead freeways that speed traffic from one center to another. The large populated areas are being filled with them and the way we are growing we may find them in our own back yards before we know it.

(Please don't put your house up for sale or go rushing to your planning commission yet. It's only our idea of what the area may be in for at some future date.)

Walter:

IS VETERAN

Walter the Weathermouse, clothing askew, galloped breathlessly into the office and, between pants, handed us his report.

"Obviously you have bought a new suit, which was provided with an extra set of trousers," we observed. "Otherwise, you wouldn't be able to address us between pants. How now?"

"I have just lured the wife of Peiping Tom, the Chinese detective cat, into a trap," breathed Walter, "and it was a lot of work, snapping the lock on the satchel into which she thought she'd chased me."

"Isn't Peiping Tom concerned about this?" we asked.

"No," said Walter with a smile. Ever since 1918, he's been referring to his wife as 'an ol' Kit Bag' anyhow. . . ."

Two separate contracts, authorizing Stanford Research Institute to do a total of $154,860 worth of woark in the next 12 months, have been issued by the U.S. Army Signal Supply Agency Laboratory Procurement Support Office at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

Largest of the two contracts — one for $78,540—calls for three service test models of an antenna group, and technical reports concerning them and the second, for $76,320, calls for research into design of semi-automatic weather stations.

Tim. Hopkins Opposed City Annexation

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 30 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced, exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

July 13, 1928:

"The Board of trustees of the city met in regular session last Tuesday evening at the city hall with all present and quite an audience in attendance.

"Mayor Weeden suggested that as there were several people from the Menlo Oaks district in attendance it would be well to suspend the order of business and give them a chance to talk to the meeting and the suggestion was adopted.

"Timothy Hopkins was called upon and in a very clear and concise manner told why he was not in favor of Menlo Oaks and his property being annexed to Menlo Park. He stated he also could not see his way clear to grant that even a strip of his land be included in the corporate limits of the city and finished by saying that if he had seen any benefit to be derived from incorporation he would have come in in the first place, but that conditions had not changed and he did not want to come in.

"Mr. Diebels from Menlo Oaks answered Mr. Hopkins and told of the advantages to be derived by the district as a whole. He stated that as it is now the property of all is being ruined on account of there being no law governing the kind of buildings built or where they should be put, and he asked for protection against this by being taken into Menlo Park.

"Mr. McCaffrey of Menlo Oaks explained what was meant by protection and again asked Mr. Hopkins to give a very small strip of his property in order to bring about union of Menlo Oaks and Menlo Park and thus overcome the difficulty.

"Hopkins was of the opinion that by giving this strip he might cloud the title to his property at a later date, which would be detrimental and thus the matter was left."

(Hopkins died January 1, 1936. His estate here subsequently became the site of the Army's Dibble General Hospital during World War II, was annexed to the city and later became Stanford Village, the city's civic center and recreation area, and the Linfield Oaks development. — editor)

Babe Ruth All-Star Squad Selected

From Our Angle . . .

'Rosie' Jones Sheds M-A's Maroon-Gold for Ocean Blue of U. S. Navy

When five teen-age navy recruits left from San Francisco's International Airport, last Monday headed for the San Diego Navy Training Station—Menlo-Atherton's athletic strength for the coming year suffered a loss.

For among those five was a young man by the name of Roosevelt Jones, better known to Bear fans as just plain "Rosie." He was to have been a senior at Menlo-Atherton High School this fall, and was touted as one of the finest running backs in the South Peninsula Athletic League.

But now he's all Navy . . . until his 21st birthday, which is August 18, 1961. And by then the Bears will have had to find other halfbacks.

Rosie, only the second athlete in M-A's history to play first string in football, basketball and baseball as a junior, set a new SPAL record of 203 yards gained rushing in one game last season against San Jose. The record was later broken in the same year by Cuo berley's Dave Kilbourne.

"ROSIE" JONES

Jones played both underneath and out in front in basketball and shifted between first base and the outfield in baseball. He was all-SPAL frosh-soph selection in baseball in 1957.

One of the more popular of M-A's athletes with players, coaches and fans alike . . . Rosie ran into a little scholastic eligibility trouble for his senior year, and evidently felt that finishing high school without playing ball would be a little empty.

He has indicated to the enlistment recruiter that he would like to try for a mechanical career in the navy . . . but because he lacks his high school diploma he is guaranteed no special school after his nine-week training course at San Diego.

Other recruits to join with Jones under the "buddy" system, (they'll all stay together during training), are William Wight, Carlton Robert Lindeman, Robert Farmer and William Whatley, all of Menlo Park.

We hate to see Roosevelt Jones not finish high school . . . irregardless of whether he would have played ball or not. But at the same time we'd like to say "nice going" to him for all the accomplishments he has already performed for M-A's Bears, and wish him "good luck" with Uncle Sam.

For Boys Under 12 Only (and their parents)

The Menlo Park Recreation department is doing another fine job with its baseball clinic program for boys . . . and farm league teams at the different playgrounds have already engaged in practice games.

The junior division (9-year-olds) and senior division (10-12-year-olds) will soon be playing regularly scheduled games with other playground teams.

These boys have a long way to go before reaching Seals Stadium . . . and some of them may never make the Burgess Park Little League grade . . . but at present they're playing ball, and that's the important thing.

From practice games last week at Laurel, Willow, Nealon, Belle Haven, Flood, Hillview and Las Lomitas come the following name jottings:

Laurel Peppers over Nealon, 12-2 . . . with Jerry Hovik, John Wheeler, Willie Nelson, Steve Sremers, Tom Wheeler, Mark Clark, Al Ormsbee and Mark Latham playing for the winners. Reserves were Low Silva and Bruce Rinehart. Winning battery: Ian McKinnon and Skip Newsom. Ed Hill and Jim Nealon played good defensive ball for Laurel. P.S. Nealon got no hits.

Belle Haven 10, Flood Park 6—with pitcher Otis Harrison being the outstanding performer for the winners. Home runs . . . John T. Walker for Belle Haven. Russell Schade and Gary Aldrich looked good on the mound for Flood, and Johnny Berbe drove in two runs with a triple.

★ ★ ★ ★

With the Midgets (nine-year-olds), the Lions of Las Lomitas were blanked by Hillview's Hornets 9-0 . . . with Ben Browning and Bob Kennedy firing a combined no-hitter. Other names in news of game . . . Cyd Jasman, Craig Wyreman, Ricky Frank, Bob Bohle and Jack Bryan.

Las Lomitas 32, Hillview 7 . . . and all because of a little ol' 24-run inning. Grand-slam-homer: Steve Kirschner. Other power hitters: John Arnot, Brian Connor and Bob Holmes . . . along with Dale De Vivo, Dale Coleman and Brad Crowther.

In more practice, Willow Little Leaguers 11, Willow Senior Farm, 5. Hitters for the Farmers were Mark Eptein, Dennis Pegelow, George Davis and Bob Tojinelli.

When the Willow juniors challenged the Willow senior farm team . . . the three-inning result was 16-0 (seniors). Tony Balsama and John Rodriguez led the winners . . . with Fred Pryal getting the only hit for the younger boys. Mark (the other) Snedeker and Jack Courtney were losing pitchers. Other junior standouts were Bob Grisnk and Tim Klick.

HANDBALL CHAMPIONS

CONGRATULATIONS, says Stan Sexton (left), director of athletics at the Menlo Park Recreation department, as he awards trophies to the doubles handball champions of a recent tournament held in Burgess Gym. The winning combination was Bill Davis, middle, and Russ Peterson, right. This was the first tourney of its kind held by the rec department, and the participation was quite large. Over thirty adult doubles teams entered the single-elemination affair. —Recorder photo

Bill Hughes, Bettencourt Manage Team

Menlo Park's Babe Ruth All-Star baseball team has been selected by the leagues' coaches, and the 17-man squad is engaging in daily practice sessions under the tutelage of All-Star coaches Bill Hughes and Frank Bettencourt.

The squad is allowed 15 players for tournament competition, but is carrying two alternates at present, in case of injuries.

Pairings for the Coastal Division championships were to be made last night in Palo Alto, and the single-elimination tournament begins July 17, Thursday, at the Stanford Sunken Diamond.

Seven All-Star teams from the Peninsula are entered, and six of these wil see action opening day, with one drawing a bye. On Friday, July 18, the semi-finals will be held, and the championship game will be played on Saturday, July 19, at 6 p.m.

The road to the National Babe Ruth Baseball Championship is a long and rocky one, as select All-Star aggregations from throughout the United States and Canada will be vieing for the title.

The Coastal Division champion will travel to Oakland for the area playoffs, which must be completed by July 27. IF they win there, the team would participate in the State Championships at Wrigley Field in Los Angeles Aug. 3.

The State Champ would travel to Winslow, Arizona, for the Regional Playoffs Aug. 10 . . . and a victory string there would send the winner to Vancouver, British Columbia, for the World Series Aug. 18.

Last year's Coastal Division champ was Redwood City, and they won the area championship before being dumped in state competition.

The seven teams entered this year in the Coastal Division All-Star tourney are: Campbell-Los Gatos, Cupertino, Menlo Park, Mountain View, Redwood City, Sunnyvale, and Palo Alto-Los Altos.

Menlo Park's squad, not named by position but by their league teams, is as follows:

LOWES—Kent Bach, Mike Cruver and Dennis Brock (alternate).

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS—Grant Beise, Ken Hadden, Harry Reese, Cliff Scott and Pete Kump.

CONSOLIDATED FREIGHTWAYS — Roger Williams, Dave Nelson and John Curti.

HOWATTS — Richard Pahler (alternate).

RED COTTAGE—Dave Drotar and Bob Lovejoy.

MENLO MACHINISTS—Danny Partemi, Walker Williams and Rick Bentley.

Head Coach — Bill Hughes, Lowes. Assistant Coach — Frank Bettencourt, Menlo Machinists.

Menlo's Semi-Pro Baseballers Travel to Ft. Bragg

The Menlo Recs, the city's active but sponsorless semi-pro baseball club, will extend its journeying to Fort Bragg this Sunday afternoon for its sixth game of the recently-initiated campaign.

Going into last night's contest with the Redwood City American Legion nine, the Recs had a 2-2 mark, as they dropped two close games last weekend.

Dick Sanchez, ace righthander for the club, will be the probably starting ptticher in the Ft. Bragg game. The probable batting order for the Recs will be: Cliff Gwartney 2b, Fred Pegelow cf, Jim Cabaniss c, Larry Irwin lf, Fred Walston 1b, Al Robinson rf, Tony Sanchez ss, Ralph Choplin 3b, and Dick Sanchez p.

The Recs, coached by Dennis Anderson, dropped two last week, both by a margin of two runs.

July 4th, at Cloverdale, they were beaten by Ernie Dominichelli, former San Francisco Seal hurler who had been released by Eugene of the Class B Northwest League just a few days before meeting the Recs.

The Recs hit Dominichelli well, banging out eight, but he kept the hits scattered, and alowed only one tally in the 3-1 decision. Jim Cabaniss tripled to center field, driving in Al Robinson, for the Recs' only run in the ninth inning.

Dick Sanchez was the loser, allowing two homers by Gene Gianoli over the 312-foot left field fence. The homers came in the third and fifth innings.

Against another local aggregation, the Menlo Merchants, the Recs dropped a 9-7 game last Sunday at Flood Field.

The game was rather sloppily played on both sides, and although the Recs opened with a four-run first, they began making mistakes in the third and didn't stop.

13 RUNNERS STRANDED

The Recs got 11 hits, but left 13 base-runners stranded. The Merchants banged 13 hits off pitchers Roger Postlewaite and Bob Anderson, chasing Postlewaite in the fourth after a six-run blast.

The Merchants displayed a liking for the long ball as they belted four doubles, a triple and home run. The Recs had four doubles.

Rec District's Third Program Series Is Pirate Week

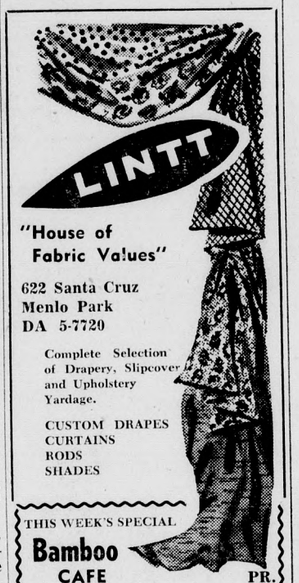

It's time for pirates on the playgrounds, and that's the theme for the Ravenswood Recreation and Park District's third week of summer program, "Pirate Week."

Special events will be Pirate Parties and Treasure Hunts, and the new game to be introduced on the playgrounds will be Treasure Smuggling. In addition to all this piratical activity, each playground will have a free swim day. All children who present registration cards from the scheduled grounds will be admitted to the Ravenswood pool at no cost.

Bowling tournaments and checker tourneys also are planned for Pirate Week, and children in the craft classes will make papier-mache jewelry.

Garden Column:

If You Can't Afford Swimming Pool Or Vacation—Try a Shade Tree

You may not be able to afford a swimming pool or a vacation in the mountains, but everyone can afford a shade tree or two to make summer more livable. So say area nurserymen, who remind us that summer shade trees can even now be purchased in large containers at your nursery.

When selecting your shade tree it is important to analyze how cold the winters are where you live and how much sunshine is actually desirable. Evergreen trees tend to keep out the sun during the winter months so, depending on location, you may want to consider the deciduous trees.

Among the more popular evergreen trees in our state are the Eucalyptus, Magnolia, including M. grandiflora and M. grandiflora St. Mary's, Acacias, Evergreen Elm, Pepper trees and many more.

Deciduous favorites include the maple, including silver maple, Norway maple and broad-leaf maple, fruitless mulberry, silk tree, sycamore, umbrella tree, walnut, willow, ash, cottonwood—to mention just a few.

Don't make the mistake of planting the right tree in the wrong place. Some shade trees grow very rapidly—the mulberry, for example. Unless you allow sufficient space for such a tree it may prove too large for your lot.

Other trees, such as the willow, have tremendous root structures and should not be planted where they may later interfere with a sewer or water system. Overhead telephone wires should be considered when you plant trees that grow excessively tall. Most shade trees will not do too well in the face of strong winds. Other trees don't mind wintry gusts and will serve you well as a windbreak.

In contrast to the fast-growing shade trees for people who are in a hurry, there are such slow growers as the live oak. For the ultimate effect you are striving to create, you may desire some trees that fal lin between these two extremes.

Your nurseryman is your best source of reliable information about which trees to plant in different positions on your property.

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

1. Feed Tuberous Begonias on regular schedule. Pick up new plants at your nursery. Be sure to try some in hanging baskets.

2. Pick blooming roses to arrange as cut flowers. Do not allow seed pods to form since these sap the strength of the plant.

3. Dig deep basins around shrubs and trees and soak thoroughly. This will help retain moisture and you will need to water less often.

4. Remove foliage from spring bulbs, tulips, daffodils, etc. after it has died back.

5. Attack weeds vigorously with one of the good commercial preparations your nurseryman can recommend.

National Little League Statistics

With the close of the National Little League season just around the corner, Dick Burrill is maintaining his steady hitting pace at .433, although Bob Kennedy of the Kiwanis is slowly creeping within reach with a .417 mark.

Bob Chaffet, Lowes, has taken the leadership in two-base hits, with four, while teammate Burrill still leads in circuit clouts, and three baggers, according to statistics released this week by Steve Brennan.

In the pitching department, Bob Lee of Crosby and Diegelman possesses a 2-0 pitching mark for a 1.000 percentage (C & D's only two victories). In total wins, Dick Burrill leads with a 4-1 mark.

Sierra Club Has Outdoors Films

Sixteen - millimeter sound motion pictures, showing scenes of the Wilderness River trail and the Northern Cascades of Washington, are available for use by community or private groups, announces Kathleen Weber of Menlo Park.

The motion pictures are being made available through the auspices of the Loma Prieta chapter of the Sierra club, of which Miss Weber is an officer.

The Wilderness River trail picture, filmed by Charles Eggert, shows the beauties of the Dinosaur Canyon area. The second film is of the Wilderness Alps of Stehekin area.

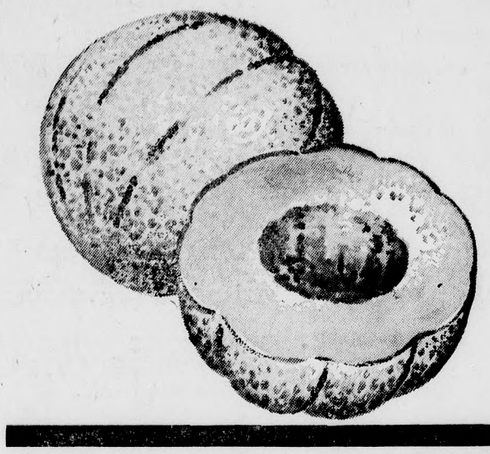

Both films run 30 minutes and reservations for their use may be made by calling Mrs. Helen Gobar, EL 5-9405.

AFTERNOON CEREMONY

The new Mrs. Kennemer is the former Alice Jean Hodgson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Hodgson of Menlo Park. Her husband is the son of Mrs. G. M. Kennemer and the late Mr. Kennemer of Redwood City.

Alice Jean and Jim were united in marriage on June 29 in a 2 p.m. ceremony at the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church in Menlo Park.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and Dr. Floyd Barr read the marriage vows. For her wedding, Alice Jean chose a balerina length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin. The gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves and a scoop neckline. She wore a crossed band of small seed pearls which held an elbow length veil of white bridal illusion. Her bouquet was of white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert Murray of Redwood City served as matron of honor at the afternoon ceremony. She was attired in a lace sheath in an aqua shade which was designed with a scoop neckline which formed a "v" in the back of the gown. A bow at the waistline added back interest to the sheath. Mrs. Murray carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

Three bridesmaids preceded the bride to the altar. They were Mrs. Jack Marine of San Francisco, Judie Corey, also of San Francisco, and Mrs. Robert Butler of Menlo Park. They were dressed in lace sheaths identical to that of the matron of honor and they carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Her corsage was of tibrum lilies.

HONEYMOON IN NATIONAL PARKS

A special service for the BETTER HALF

Many men would like their wives to have at least a working knowledge of the family's investments. The practical side of this viewpoint is attested by the fact that today women control well over half the nation's wealth . . . and outnumber the men on the stockholder lists of many large companies.

If you would encourage your wife in a better grasp of investment, we urge you to let us arrange a "briefing" for her on the whys and wherefores of informed ownership of securities at no obligation to you or to her.

And we invite you to stop in, too, and have a critical look at the professional aid we are equipped to give those seeking greater income.
